Home Through the Dark

Anthea Fraser

Home Through the Dark Anthea Fraser
Virginia Clements was looking for a fresh start.

Leaving her actor husband, after discovering his infidelity, she travelled under the assumed name of Ginnie Durrell.

When her car crashes in the coastal town of Westhampton, she decides that this is as good a place as any to begin anew.

Her love of the stage draws her to a troupe of actors.

But they have more on their minds than just acting.

Each cast member has a strange interest in her past life; some know her real name, others start asking questions...

When Ginnie accidentally intercepts a phone call demanding a large sum of money to be dropped off in payment for a suspicious act, a trail of unsettling clues begins.

Silent, anonymous phone calls, doorbells ringing in the night, footsteps in the dark, and a figure on her balcony.

What are the actors of The Little Theatre trying to hide?

Who is disrupting the peace she had so desperately hoped to find?

What deadly secrets lie in this sleepy seaside town?

For Ginnie, who had wished for a new life, this is just the beginning...

‘Home Through the Dark’ is a compelling mystery from a master of British crime writing.

Praise for Anthea Fraser:

“A superbly crafted, riveting, page-turner of a read" - Booklist

“Ms Fraser is her dependable elegant, guileful self withholding the killer's identity till a dying fall" - Sunday Times

'A well-mannered, well-plotted and well-told story' - Birmingham Post

'Sympathetic, well-executed book, in which full attention is paid to human feelings and failings' - Yorkshire Post

ANTHEA FRASER has written all her life but did not begin to take it seriously until after marriage, when she found herself at home with two small daughters and embarked on a correspondence course with the London School of Journalism. She wrote short stories before turning to novels of the supernatural, and then to crime. Her other books include ‘Pretty Maids all in a Row’, ‘Eleven Who Went Up to Heaven’, The Ten Commandments’, ‘The Seven Stars’ and ‘One is One and All Alone’.
