Amy Fowler is an upmarket criminal lawyer in New York City who's riding a series of successes and she intends to capitalize on them. Just as she leaves her big firm to start her own, her husband attracts the attention of the tabloids in a high-profile affair that destroys her launch and everything she's worked so hard for.

Myra, her old college roommate, calls her from Texas with a problem of her own. It appears her brother, Greg, is being charged with murder, and Amy sees this as the perfect time to flee the city until news of her husband's scandalous affair cools down.

Greg Dempsey is a blond, blue-eyed Texas rancher, and he and Amy have nothing in common except a mutual attraction that proves irresistible. The two can't keep their hands off of each other, but he wants her to appreciate the joy of the countryside's wide, open spaces in hopes she'll stay. Despite how charming this handsome cowboy is, Amy intends to return to New York City knowing she has a career and reputation to rebuild there. However, in life and love the choices aren't that simple, and the solutions aren't always so easy. Things get complicated quickly when the successful young lawyer learns she's pregnant with Greg's baby!

Can Amy reconcile her love for the Texas cowboy with her desire to rise to the top of the legal world?
